I'm a huge fan of all things kitschy and nostalgia-tinged. I especially love to draw off of 80s cinema and run amok with colorful pen and ketchup. I can't tell you how many 80s films I've been googling to find out more about their obscure cultural impact and I'm pretty sure you can't tell which one is this. I know it isn't necessarily the best way to draw character art but I'm new to the process so I have to get into some sort of routine. I feel like I need to get my practice in somewhere! Do you feel the same way? For me, I really enjoy how many people I've seen convert their character art to manga - I have some plans with doing it myself! My goal with this is to keep the character and background clean and simple. I'm going for a crude and authentic style. Here's some more stuff you might enjoy: Oh yes, and to anyone who has any interest, I did finish watching all of the Prince of Tides in one sitting. I felt really bad for enjoying it so much more than I did when I was younger. There's just too much I don't remember! Vaping, along with cannabis and nicotine, is an example of a widespread addictive substance, but it is also currently the most popular form of smoking cessation technology. Cannabis and nicotine are naturally available to humans, but not most other animals. We can certainly conclude that the food components that we eat are not the only thing that can change a species' preferences for different behaviours. Cannabis is very popular in many parts of the world to help control nausea from chemotherapy, cope with pain, and to help with sleep. It is also used as an appetite stimulant. But for those who use it long term, there is a risk of dependence, as well as psychosis. What makes it so exciting is that it is a naturally occurring substance that has been found to prevent or reverse some f988f36e3a
