On Wednesday he defended his regular guest Milo Yiannopoulos, who was banned by Twitter for harassing actress Leslie Jones. On his show Rush explained that he didn't support Yiannopoulos's comments, but defended him as a writer who has a right to his opinion. Then Rush attacked Leslie Jones, suggesting that she was "acting stupid" in response to the controversy. "Leslie Jones is acting stupid," Limbaugh said. "It doesn't take a genius to figure out what happened. It's got to be that Leslie Jones is looking for the opportunity to get attention because she's not getting it on Twitter anymore. I don't know how much she was getting, but now all of a sudden she's got a book deal, she's got a movie coming out, she's got a speaking tour. They've got to keep her busy." Rush's remarks were very much in the same vein as those of Donald Trump and the Republican National Committee, who have said that liberals are "hysterical" and "unhinged" for expressing outrage over Trump's comments, especially in the aftermath of the alleged sexual assault of a woman by former

Access Hollywood host Donald Trump. In a recent poll, the majority of Republican women supported Trump's comments, including his alleged comments of "grabbing" women by the "pussy."Q: Prove that a set of linearly dependent vectors is not linearly independent Prove that $a\mbox{mathbf}\{e\} 1+b\mbox{mathbf}\{$ e 2+c\mathbf{e} 3\$ with $a,b,c\in \mathbb{Q}$ is not linearly independent if a=0 or b=0 or c=0.
