The web browser is evolving into a powerful computing platform for work, storing data, and entertaining. Shows, videos, portfolios and creative projects are increasingly being created in web browsers. A platform that enables all these tasks, in combination with an advanced Internet of Things (IoT) experience, can revolutionize our lives. For that reason, Adobe has made it easy for end users to take their imagery and edit it in the browser. The Style Editor-Time Lapse tool increases time-lapse functionality by allowing users to insert stop-motion style effects while working on a photo. Users can select an object or two from their photo in the selection tool palette. Next, they click the Select tool and place it at the beginning of their subject's movement. Then, they press Ctrl+T to start a new clip and each click of the Style Editor-Time Lapse tool shows a new movement frame of the subject at a regular speed. Using the Style Editor-Time Lapse tool, users can simulate stop-motion effects as they watch the clip display in real time. Adobe knows blending images is tricky. Most images have some kind of luminance noise, and there are limitations to blending results. With this in mind, Adobe created the new Blend tool. This tool makes it easier for users to blend images, providing every feature in a single dialog box. It's a single action, free from ambiguity and unexpected behavior. Now, the most common graphics tasks can be completed as one simple action.

Further, when you press the Alt key while adjusting the opacity using the Blend tool, you can see your image change with every action.

If you have little or no experience in using Photoshop, or you believe that a less expensive on-demand option under 60-120 bucks is acceptable, consider professional services like Canva. This is the photo editing software for pros, so if you're a photographer, graphic designer, video editor, web designer, or 3D creator, you owe it to yourself to learn this powerful asset. The new features in Photoshop make designer's life easier, and with a subscription it not only saves you time and money, but also ensures that you'll constantly stay up to date on the latest updates to the software.

Our goal is to have industry-standard tools that will run on any computer platform, without sacrificing speed or quality, to enable users to achieve the highest level of their creativity regardless of the devices they use and as they continue to expand their software workflows and applications by layering tools and functionality. To that end, we're sunseting the Photohop 3D product in its current form, and focus our efforts on the new 3D tools in our Substance family. We have reinvented the legacy 3D features and updated them to the modern GPUs. They are now much more efficient and faster. They have also been re-architected. As such, they are not forward-compatible. That said, we encourage industry users to explore the new 3D tools and workflows in the Substance lines. You can download both the standalone 3D versions or the integrated 3D filters in Adobe Creative Cloud. Substance controls will be automatic in other parts of Lightroom, Bridge, Photoshop and other products from Adobe. In addition, we are expanding the 3D system to bring more amazing new capabilities to Photoshop. We will introduce 3D layers to Photoshop as a support for layer styles. Layers and support for multiple views will take advantage of the latest capabilities in Adobe's Blender tool used for 3D modeling at Adobe. 3D layers are ready to go in the upcoming release. Masks will be overhauled to support layers and multiple views. We will also enhance techniques such as polylayers, curves and filters, to support more creative workflows. Users will be able to use these features in real time to make their entire work process faster, smoother and more creative. We look forward to seeing how you use these features.
